

DEATH TOLL GROWS IN MICHIGAN HOTEL BLAZE

HEALTH BOARD STAFF MEMBERS WANT BACK PAY

Council Has Failed to Pay Allowances, Official Claims

INTEREST MOUNTS ON MONEY OWED

$32.46 Extra Doled Out as Former Sanitary Officer Is Paid

Representatives of the board of health today indicated further appeals would be made to city council to pay up allowances which, they said, are due members of the health board staff.

They indicated that if these allowances are paid up, the city will save considerable money in interest charges.

Klopper Is Paid
As an example, Health Commissioner R. T. Holzbach points out, former Sanitary Officer Frank Klopper received $282.46 recently. This sum represents $250 in salary, up until Klopper resigned, plus $32.46 in interest.

Dr. Holzbach points out that council, in its appropriations for health board purposes in former years, did not include funds for allowances paid for staff members' transportation and other expenses. Legal action was instituted by the board and, as a result, common pleas court handed down an order that the city must pay expenses incurred by the board.

The salary of the present sanitary officer, William Roach, is $67.50 a month, plus $25 monthly allowance for expenses which, however, he has not been getting. The city health nurse is paid $12.50 a month, also plus $25 which she hasn't been getting, according to the health board.

Owes $1,400
According to Dr. Holzbach's figures, the city now owes Roach $87.50 from Jan. 1, 1933, plus interest of approximately $25 at 6 per cent.

These figures also show that the city owes Miss Elizabeth Steer, city nurse, $900 plus interest.

Suit, Counter Suit Follow Auto Mishap
Two suits have been filed in the court of Justice William G. Rich Jr. here, as a result of an automobile collision a short distance south of Englewood's Glen yesterday afternoon.

The two cars in the case are owned by G. B. LeVan of Steubenville and Edward Franzblau of Detroit.

After the accident, LeVan offered to call everything all square and both proceeded on their respective ways but the Detroit man disagreed, came to Salem and filed suit for $100 against LeVan, at which time the latter's counter suit was filed.

LeVan promptly countered with a suit of his own, established a bond of $500 and regained possession of the car. LeVan's attachment, however, is still hanging on Franzblau's car in a local garage. The hearings are scheduled Thursday.

The accident was investigated by the highway patrolmen who said today that Franzblau, enroute north, was hugging the middle of the road too closely.

TAX DEADLINE SET AT JAN. 20

Extension Action Taken at Meeting of Commissioners

County commissioners yesterday passed a resolution advising County Treasurer John C. Litty that the tax payment period expiring Dec. 20 has been extended until Jan. 20. One reason for the action was due to the failure of completion of tax duplicates.

Meanwhile, however, Litty will continue to accept partial payments on back taxes and also accept partial payments in advance on the December tax charge.

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 11.—Shortly after Christmas, the staff in County Treasurer George P. Lewis' office probably will be increased and a four-hour work day started so that the December tax collection may be started before Feb. 1.

Treasurer Lewis has been awaiting closing of the books to prepare for the next collection. It is probable that County Auditor John J. Arnold will have the tax books ready immediately after there is some definite action in Columbus.

The employees in the treasurer's office will work in three eight-hour shifts, Lewis said. It takes about six weeks to prepare for opening of collections.

Two Lisbon Girls Oratory Winners

Two Lisbon girls, Virginia Maxwell, speaking on "The White Sepulcher," and Miss Hiscoc, "War for Profit," were selected as winners of the Columbian county declamation contest held Sunday at the Presbyterian and Methodist churches at Lisbon.

Miss Maxwell represented the Presbyterian church and Miss Hiscoc the Methodist church. They will represent their city in the district prize of peace contest to be held shortly. Five men and five women participated in the event Sunday. James Campbell was the Salem representative.

At the Presbyterian church, Dale Emge, of East Palestine, was declared second place, while Miss Smith, of Leontina, placed second at the Methodist church.

Poultry Tattooed
Farmers in Columbiana county are having their poultry tattooed, and the different markings are being registered at the office of Sheriff Frank Ballantine. The poultry is being marked by the National Tattooing Registry association.

YUGO-HUNGARY SCARE PASSES; LEAGUE HAILED

Agreement Is Regarded as Notable Triumph for Nations

KING ALEXANDER'S DEATH DEPLORED

Pact Apparently Satisfactory to Rival Countries

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
GENEVA, Dec. 11.—A threatening Yugoslav-Hungarian quarrel was ended today and the agreement hailed by Geneva statesmen as a notable triumph for the League of Nations.

Especially gratifying to them was that it followed closely the removal, under league auspices of another European "war threat." This was the Saar basin territory plebiscite, on which a Franco-German financial agreement was made last week and a solution reached on the difficult problem of policing the territory during the vote.

"Deplore" Assassination
Both Hungary and Yugoslavia last night approved a resolution "deploring" the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marseille. Not a dissenting vote was cast.

Hungary was asked in a tactful way to take "punitive action against any authorities whose culpabilities have been established" and to "communicate to the council the measures which it takes to this effect."

Both Yugoslavia, which had charged Budapest with complicity in the assassination by harboring terrorists, and Hungary appeared satisfied.

Statesmen of major European powers were vastly relieved when the government at Budapest, after studying a draft of the agreement, instructed its representative to "vote for the resolution."

Easier Concessions
Diplomats here said the agreement proved that nations may make concessions to the league which they would find difficult to make directly to the government with which it was at odds.

Belief was expressed in the resolution that "certain Hungarian authorities may have assumed, at any rate through negligence, certain responsibilities relative to acts having connection with the perpetration of the crime at Marseille."

This conclusion was based on a study of "the diplomatic correspondence exchanged between the Yugoslav and Hungarian governments from 1931 to 1934."

MAZER'S TERM IS COMMUTED

Convicted in Canton Editor's Slaying, He Is Freed

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 11.—Louis Mazer of Canton, convicted of manslaughter in the sensational slaying of Don R. Melet, Canton newspaper editor, today won a commutation of his sentence from Governor George White.

Mazer, whose sentence for manslaughter in the Don Melet slaying was commuted by Governor White, left the London prison farm late Monday afternoon. It was said by officials of the institution today.

The governor did not announce the commutation until this morning. Supt. W. F. Amrine, who recommended the commutation, was out of the city but his secretary said Mazer left Monday afternoon and she did not know where he went.

"Mazer pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in June, 1927, and was sentenced to 5 to 20 years."

A $2,500 personal injury claim was filed at Lisbon today by Charles Dock, of Rogers, against the Pennzoil Oil Co., of Salem.

The suit came as the result of an injury Dock claims when the automobile in which he was riding with George L. Van Kirk, was struck by a Pennzoil machine in charge of Leonard Wines on route 39 near the Ohio-Pennsylvania line.

CRIME COUNCIL DRIVE MAPPED
Double-Barreled Drive on Lawlessness Urged by Roosevelt
(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A mandate from President Roosevelt for a double-barreled attack on lawlessness set the national crime conference to work today on what is called the greatest campaign of its kind in the country's history.

Five hundred experts who applauded the President vigorously after his speech last night started discussions and studies to carry out Mr. Roosevelt's two suggestions:

1. That every law enforcement agency from the justice department down to one-man police forces in hamlets should be coordinated.

2. That a "body of public opinion" should be built up to palm anti-crime efforts.

"Crime School" Looms
Attorney General Cummings' crime conference faces the task of drawing up this program without treading on states' rights or relieving localities of responsibilities properly theirs. It seems likely the recommendation to come from the conference will be a national criminological institute—perhaps a sort of university with degree-granting powers—to train peace officials, enlist the aid of science and serve as a national center for the exchange of information.

Calling crime "a symptom of social disorder" in the cure of which every social agency must be active, President Roosevelt told the conference:

"First, I ask you to plan and to construct with scientific care a constantly improving administrative structure—a structure which will tie together every crime preventing law enforcing agency of every branch of government—the federal government, the 48 state governments and all of the local governments, including counties, cities and towns."

"Your second task is of equal importance. An administrative structure that is perfect will still be ineffective in its results unless the people of the United States understand the larger purposes and cooperate with these purposes."

Interpret Crime Problem
"I ask you therefore to do all in your power to interpret the problem of crime to the people of this

AT LEAST 12 KNOWN DEAD; 100 OR MORE UNACCOUNTED FOR

Ruins of Kern Hotel and icy water of Grand River Hide Fate of an Undetermined Number of Guests

FOUR STATE LEGISLATORS PERISH

70-Year-Old Lawmaker Jumps Into River, Swims Ashore; Hotel Well Filled With Legislature in Session

(By Associated Press)

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 11.—Smouldering ruins of the Kern hotel and the icy waters of the Grand river today hid the fate of an undetermined number of guests as police announced that only half of the approximately 200 persons lodged there when fire broke out this morning had been accounted for.

Chief of Police Alfred Seymour said the appalling number of unaccounted for indicated a "heavy loss of life," although there were only 12 known dead and many of the missing guests were expected to be found safe.

Four Legislators Die
The list of identified dead included the names of four legislators, who were here for a special session of the legislature. They are:

Rep. Charles D. Parker, Otisville.
Rep. Donald E. Sias, Midland.
Rep. T. Henry Howlett, Gregory, Mich.
Rep. John W. Goodwine, Marlette.

Other identified dead included: David Monroe, assistant manager of the hotel.
I. Washneff, Los Angeles.

The hotel was well-filled, due to the special legislative session, when the fire broke out, about 5:30 a. m. and within a few minutes the flames were raging through much of the building.

Screaming men and women, their escapes cut off, jumped from windows to the street or into the Grand river, which flows at the rear of the building.

Five of the known dead drowned when they chose the icy waters of the river to the flames that had trapped them. Six others were killed or fatally injured when they jumped to the streets, before firemen could reach them with ladders or spread nets.

A few threaded their way through pitch dark corridors and down flame-licked stairways.

Temperature Near Zero
They had no time to dress and several suffered frozen or frost-bitten feet, for the temperature was near zero and snow and ice covered the streets.

Police and firemen warned that it might be days before the full extent of the fire toll could be learned, for the hotel register was destroyed and anyone caught in the holocaust undoubtedly was burned beyond recognition. Police broadcast an appeal to all survivors to communicate with them.

Of the missing, gravest fears were felt for Senator John Leidlain, of Saginaw, who did not respond to warnings pounded on his door, and R. S. McFarland, a Dayton, Ohio, salesman.

For 20 minutes after the fire was discovered, a bedlam of shrieks resounded from the flame-swept building. Then the screams either were silenced or were drowned out by the roar of collapsing walls and floors.

Anyone who had not escaped by that time was doomed, firemen said.

Unable to Reach Escapes
Many of the trapped persons were unable to reach the fire escapes.

At the rear of the building, where the river flows, there were no fire escapes.

A few identifications of the dead were made as the morning passed.

What's Your's?
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 11.—One of New York's very, very leading bankers was visiting our studio (and incidentally his studio) and he accused me of being an inflationist. I told him I wasn't an inflationist, that I was honest with him. I didn't know anything about it. But that the thing that I felt was that if industrialists and business men didn't start investing, and helping the President, and not keep hollering for a guaranty of the value of their money, they would force the President to do that very thing that they kept hollering and asking him not to do. This fellow had an economist with him. Pretty near everybody's got one, either that or a police dog, and the more wealthy have got both. Yours,

Lamb of Columbiana, in charge of the northern Columbiana county group, were present.

Three Cubans, One American Die In Havana Air Crash
(By Associated Press)
HAVANA, Dec. 11.—A Havana-Santiago passenger plane carried four persons, including an American, to death when it crashed yesterday in the hills of Oriente province.

The three known victims were George H. Bunker, 47, of Yonkers, N. Y., vice-president of the Guantanamo Sugar Co.; and the two pilots, Torres Navarro and Emeterio Vorrila.

G. Grant Mason, Jr., president of the Cuban National Aviation Co., operators of the commercial plane, said he believed the fourth victim to be Jose Coll, inspector of the Cuban treasury department.

Three persons were injured. An eye witness to the crash, Felix Martin Kinderlay, said the plane apparently was lost in the fog and clouds. The ship cruised about the neighborhood for two hours, he said, finally coming down through the clouds. It struck a palm tree, tearing off one wing, and hurtled into the hillside.

Bunker, a graduate of Yale, spent about half of each year in Cuba. His widow and three children survive.

SOMETHING TO GET MAD ABOUT

Narcotic addicts and peddlers are foreign to the experience of most persons. The narcotic traffic is secret and unobtrusive. But it is systematic and aggressive. Without being told, one could guess it is increasing. It offers enormous profits.

Narcotic addicts are helpless, as is well known. The peddler who patiently lets them pay him for the privilege of killing themselves is indispensable. His business is built on human frailty, probably one of the best commercial foundations.

It is, moreover, a convenient business. Fortunately, there is no need for storage space or equipment. The narcotic peddler can carry his wares in his pocket. He can meet his customers in doorways, alleys, in their own homes—any place.

To build for the future the peddler, or the more powerful criminal who hires him, can afford to give away narcotics to adolescents. As addicts, their span of life will not be long, but most of them will be good customers while they live.

Simultaneous raids in a number of cities last week by federal narcotic agents reminded Americans of one of the most insidious threats to their social security—the narcotics trade. It is something to get mad about—something to get good and mad about. If Americans could muster up half the righteous indignation against narcotic peddlers which once they leveled against the saloon keeper, who did his business in the open there would be no dissent. The criminal business of enslaving human beings with narcotics is a hundred times more reprehensible than the worst misuse of alcohol.

HUNGARY'S GESTURE

Outwardly, the quarrel in the Balkans has been terminated by Hungary's agreement to investigate conditions mentioned in Yugoslavia's report on the murder of King Alexander. Hungary was able to accede because its national honor was left out of the discussion. Yugoslavia, theoretically, will be satisfied if its neighbor goes through the motions of cleaning up the assassin training schools said to exist in Hungarian territory.

A gesture does not make friends of enemies, however. It does not eliminate causes of jealousy and hatred. It cannot remove fear and mistrust, nor put didom into the heads of statesmen rushing to commit the colossal stupidity of war. There have been a great many gestures since the World War ended, all calculated to make war impossible. Only a few days of unleashed hatred in the Balkans were required to show a still believing world how near war is.

Yet, it is not so near as some of the more apprehensive alarmists say it is. Little dogs can snap and snarl at each other, and even draw blood, but they are not equipped to do the damage big dogs can do. The Balkan states can get as angry as the most powerful governments in Europe. Their politicians have a genius for giving offense to each other. But they are only little dogs. They cannot fight unless the big dogs are willing.

There is no reason to believe that the really important European governments are prepared to do any fighting or to sanction any fighting which might involve them. They are not ready. They speak much of their defenses and profess deep alarm over preparations being made by their enemies, but they have not entered the state in which war comes to be regarded finally as the only thing remaining to be done.

It is not impossible that stupid soldiers, placed in dangerous situations by conniving statesmen, might perform some overtact sufficiently important to start a Balkan war. The gesture by Hungary may prove unsatisfactory. The little dogs may fly at each other's throats, and the big dogs may have to finish what their little companions started. But the odds are against it. If the powerful governments of Europe had been ready to fight, they would have found excuses to start in less important quarrels than the one which has brought the Balkan states to the defense of their honor, their borders, their people and their cherished hatreds.

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, December 12

According to the lunar transits bearing sidereal influence on the affairs of this day there should be a definite step forward to the goal of high ambitions and aspirations. It is a time for pushing for the recognition, preferment, substantial support and active co-operation of those in power and authority. With these important projects may be launched and the popularity, prestige as well as the fortunes increased or enhanced. But sign all writings with great precaution.

If This Is Your Birthday—

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of excellent prospects for putting over important plans and projects with the support of those in power or authority. It is a time for pushing for high goals, with increased prosperity, enhanced popularity and profitable associations, but be alert to fraud, deception, misrepresentation and be wary of strangers, especially cautious in regard to writings.

A child born on this day may be clever, versatile, ambitious and have a degree of personal popularity and prestige, although disposed to resort to sharp methods of advancing themselves.

Cole Porter is now composing his tunes and writing his glossy lyrics in a niche of one of the Waldorf's highest peaks. He begins at midnight in a lengthy cathedral-like room surrounded by pianos and dressed in slacks and a polo shirt with wide belt. His getup is as comical as some of his jingles.

Jack Dempsey's restaurant on the site of the old Morning Telegraph is likely to become a robust all-fellow spot in the Roaring 40's and a successor to Jack's he-foed emporium on Sixth avenue. No beany has quite topped Jack's, although Dinty Moore's is a runner-up in worldly clientele. The Dempsey cafe, in American Colonial design, seats 500 and has open hickory fires as well as open butcher shop and a wine cooling room. Dempsey is not the first ex-champion to become a front man. Society's sartorial arbiter elegantiorum—he's word beagling again!—is William Goadby Loew, son-in-law of George F. Baker. His turnouts are last gasps of tailoring in New York and London. When saved-off white vests for full dress recently culricued into a creation of bluntly rounded points, he was first past the post. As he was when the single black pearly stud became a design of the evening.

Among the astonishing spruce-uppers was that familiar figure of Paris, Prince Andrew of Greece. I beheld him one morning on a turning of the Vendome; black coat with Shephard plaid trousers, wing collar, polka dot bow and low bowler. I likely-split to the outfitters and some time later sauntered forth in similar getup. But no dice. A half black and an oily buzzard sidled up with: "Guide, mister?"

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

High Blood Pressure Is Common Symptom

RECENTLY I DINED with a medical man from England during the course of our conversation he referred to the splendid physique of most Americans, but wondered why so many ultimately succumb to high blood pressure, heart disease and other disturbances of the blood system.

Dr. Copeland

It is a fact that high blood pressure is all too common in this country. High blood pressure and the things that produce it are a menace to health and long life.

It is the evil result of faulty eating habits, lack of relaxation and rest, and living under "high pressure." If we are to avoid this trouble we must cultivate the habit of moderate living and learn how to relax both physically and mentally.

Practice Moderation
I am sure you will agree with me when I say too many persons are careless about health habits.

As a group, Americans are prone to excessive and hurried eating, irregular eating hours, and inadequate hours of rest. In order to reduce to the utmost the stress and strain of modern life, it is essential to have reasonable rest periods and long hours of sleep at night.

We are all more or less interested in sports and athletics. But it is important to realize that such activities are of value if taken always in a spirit of fun and play. When indulged in perpetually as strenuous, bitter contests, harm may follow. Like other habits and activities, sports should be practiced in moderation.

While these are a few of the causes which encourage high blood pressure, such factors as heredity, overweight, faulty eating, constitutional disorders and infections must not be overlooked. But even when these underlying causes are removed, freedom from high blood pressure cannot be hoped for unless certain hygiene measures are enforced. Perhaps when everyone becomes familiar with the dangers of neglecting the human mechanism, the occurrence of high blood pressure will be much more infrequent.

Not a Disease
Bear in mind that high blood pressure is not a disease, but is a sign of some disorder within the body. It can be accepted as an index of the general health. Any alteration from the normal blood pressure, whether it becomes high or low, should be considered a warning sign. It should result in serious effort to correct the underlying cause. Those individuals who have normal blood pressure are fortunate and should do all they can to keep it.

Too many persons fail to realize that they are suffering from high blood pressure. In consequence, they do not take the necessary precautions before some serious damage has been done. Often it is too late to correct the disturbance and all that can be done then is to prevent further damage to the body. The practice of making regular visits to the doctor would have spared you this danger.

with your physician I would advise that you do so now. Have your blood pressure taken at least once a year and more frequently if the doctor thinks it necessary. If you are told you have high blood pressure do not become alarmed. There is no need for apprehension providing you follow the advice and instructions given.

SAYS "GOSH" AS FIVE ARE BORN

Old Doc Dafoe Tells Big New York Audience of Quintuplets

Tells Story to 3,000

The obscure country doctor who achieved fame for his successful fight to keep the five little sisters alive stood before an enthralled audience of 3,000 in Carnegie hall last night and told in simple language the story of the famous quintuplets.

Early in the morning of last May 28 he answered a hurry call to the Dionne home, he related, and found the house in confusion, with no preparation for a confinement "except a tea-kettle boiling on the stove."

"I was astonished to find two babies had already been born, and a third was arriving. Two neighbors were acting as midwives and doing excellent work. The father had disappeared. I scrubbed up in the best way available and took over the situation."

He told how the last two babies were born with an "angel's veil" or caul covering them and remarked that in olden times such an incident was supposed to bring good luck.

Seemed Like Dream

He said he had been sleepy from a previous obstetrical case that night and the whole incident appeared to be "unreal and dream-like," but he attended the babies mechanically.

"The attendants told me afterwards," he said, "that my eyes were bulging and with the arrival of each baby my only word was 'gosh' with ascending inflection."

He didn't think the babies could live so he baptized them and then, alarmed at the mother's condition, he hurried away for a priest, a distance of two and a half miles. The mother improved so rapidly, however, that within three hours she was out of danger.

Dr. Dafoe said that during these hours the babies were almost forgotten, but their kitten-like cries reminded him of their presence. They were wrapped in heated blankets and placed in an ordinary butcher's basket.

First Week a Nightmare

"The first week was a nightmare," he said, "with frequent alarms and innumerable trips sandwiched between my other calls. The

Helen Hayes Brings Her Favorite Role To Screen In Barrie's Story

AFTER an absence of more than a year, Helen Hayes has returned to the screen to score another great personal triumph. After a most successful season on the New York stage in "Maggie Wylie," Miss Hayes comes back to play the role she loves the best—that of "Maggie Wylie" in "What Every Woman Knows." Maggie's efforts to win a husband, although she often says the reason is because of her "lack of charm," are at times amusing and at times extremely touching—but instead of running true to the statement above the star shows that she is the possessor of a most magnetic charm that shines above any role she portrays. Helen Hayes as the Scottish lass, "Maggie Wylie," is a genuine treat for theater-goers. One of the greatest hits in her brilliant career was in this same role in the stage production.

Another Hit

The famous romance by Sir James Barrie has always been a much beloved story but until Helen Hayes played Maggie it never reached the heights of popularity it has today. With the star in a splendid cast headed by Brian Aherne, young English stage star who plays the masculine lead as John Shand. Others are Madge Evans, Lucille Watson, Dudley Digges, Henry Stephenson, Donald Crisp and David Torrence.

The plot is so very well known it need not be told in any length here. Briefly it concerns the efforts of a retiring but capable Scottish woman to find romance although handicapped by what she terms "lack of charm." When her two older brothers finally arrange a marriage contract with a promising young man in the village she devotes her life to seeing that he becomes a success. She loves him devotedly but feels that it is her duty to stand back always and to work for his success in the political world, never even letting him know all that she has done. When he babies needed constant supervision and frequent stimulation to arouse them out of their attacks of suffocation."

News of the now famous birth was first given to the outside world when an uncle of the babies inquired hesitatingly of a North Bay newspaper the cost of a "five-row birth notice," the doctor said, and from that time on equipment and supplies kept pouring into the Dionne home.

Dr. Dafoe said that early in the fall each baby in turn developed a severe type of intestinal toxemia "which gave me many anxious moments," but when the babies were removed to the tiny hospital especially built for them they showed decided improvement.

"One would hardly recognize now the babies of two months ago," he said. "Their faces have filled out, their eyes sparkle, their legs are straight and plump, their tummies are in good proportion and these happy little souls are taking on the rotund appearance of little puppies."

Dr. Dafoe will fly to Washington tomorrow and later will go to Baltimore where he will be the guest of Johns-Hopkins university.

Last night, after his talk, he went to a Broadway night club and said he had a "swell time."

Moguls Of Baseball Clan Gather To Peddle Ivory

Open Season for Baseball Deals Gets Under Way in Full Blast at Annual Meetings

BY EDDIE BRIETZ, Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The open season for baseball deals got away under full blast today as owners and managers flocked into town for the annual meetings of the American and National leagues.

Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, who already has spent almost $2,000,000 trying to get a pennant winner, and Eddie Collins, his able business manager, were the most sought-after.

Yawkey and Collins held several conferences with Joe Cronin, their new manager, and the word went around that they would like to have Jack Burns, first sacker, and Oscar Melillo, second baseman, from the St. Louis Browns, or Joe Kuhel and Buddy Myer from the Washington Senators—if the price is right.

"The trouble is," said one member of the Boston party, "that just because we have paid fancy prices for a few ball players, the other clubs want to stick us for everything they have to offer. We couldn't buy a good bat boy for less than $35,000."

It is considered more or less certain that Melillo will wind up at second base for the Sox and then Yawkey and his aides will turn their attention toward replacing Eddie Morgan at first.

So, while the American and National league moguls meet behind closed doors in the first of their formal sessions, the managers will hold forth in the lobby and try to cook up deals.

The principal business before the National league moguls is to install Ford C. Frick as their new president and decide whether Judge Emil C. Fuchs of the Boston Braves is to be permitted to use his park for dog races next summer. Virtually all the early arrivals among the owners said they were opposed to the idea.

American leaguers will name the place for the annual all-star game, with Cleveland favored; discuss the future of Babe Ruth; intra-league games during the training season; synthetic double-headers and post-season barnstorming tours, one of which has just ended in Manila after a tour of the Orient.

"STOP DUTRA" GOLFERS CRY

Open Champ Is Likely to Shake Espinosa From First Place

(By Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 11.—The last half of a record-smashing field of 300 golfers turned into the second 18-hole round of the $12,500 Miami Biltmore open today.

Olin Dutra, national open champion, turned the first 18 holes Sunday in a snappy 70, one under par, and loomed as the one most probable to shake Al Espinosa of Chicago out of first position at the 36-hole mark today.

Espinosa finished yesterday with a 74-72-146 for the midway mark in the 72-hole tournament that ends Thursday.

Chicagoan Second Class
The Chicagoan is cut from the second division of the classic, composed largely of golfers who seldom participate in major tournaments. Dutra represents the first division, open to all players who were among the low 60 and under in the last G. A. championship and the low 30 and under in the national open.

A stroke behind Espinosa yesterday were Johnny Farrell of Short Hills, N. J., and Orville White of St. Louis, two first division entries, whose 147 was tied by a second group player, Mike Turney of Elmwood, N. Y.

At the end of the first division, all players in the first division, the low 80 and ties in the second group, and all the amateurs, will be selected to participate in the two final 18-hole rounds to be played Wednesday and Thursday.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 11.—An announcement was made here of the forthcoming wedding of Miss Elsie Jane Bishop, Carnegie Tech campus "queen," to Colin (Red) Stewart, of Lorain, captain of the Plaid football team of 1933. They will be wed Dec. 27.

BARNEY ROSS WINS EASILY

Takes 12-Round Decision From Bobby Pacho in Cleveland

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Barney Ross, lightweight champion, from Chicago had practically no difficulty at all last night in taking a twelve-round decision from Bobby Pacho of Los Angeles.

When the spirit moved him or the crowd yelled, the champion would send a flood of jabs and perhaps a right cross to Pacho's ribs, but Pacho took them all without a great deal of distress.

Ross, his handlers said, was suffering from a bad cold. He weighed 138 pounds, Pacho 133 1/2.

Pirrone Wins Over Halper
In a ten-round preliminary Paul Pirrone of Cleveland and Lou Halper of Newark, N. J., put on perhaps the most active and exciting contest of the evening, with Pirrone taking the decision.

Patsy Perroni of Canton and Boston, weighing 181 1/2 pounds, took his third decision, from Johnny Risko, 195, of Cleveland, in another ten-round match. Perroni almost dropped Risko with a right cross in the third.

Buddy Baer, 238-pound brother of Max, the heavyweight champion, knocked out Mickey McGookey, 258 1/2, of Detroit in just one minute and 22 seconds, thereby running his knockout record to eight straight and bringing a big smile to the champ who was at the ring-side.

The fights netted $29,977 to The Cleveland News toyshop fund.

Grange Offered Job As Coach Of Pittsburgh Pros

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—For the same reason that baseball moguls are anxious to keep Babe Ruth in the game—his ability to make the turnstiles click steadily—professional football is trying to keep Harold (Red) Grange from hanging up his maul.

While the Chicago Bears were losing the National league championship to the New York Giants Sunday, Grange, the "Gallop Ghost of Illinois," was ending his playing career on the bench.

"I'm 31 years old and have been playing a long time," said Grange. "I can't take it the way I could a couple of years ago so this is my finale."

May Coach Pirates
It was to have been Grange's swan song from the pro game until Arthur Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates heard about it. Rooney wasn't a bit pleased with the team coach, Luby De Meola turned out for him—it lost ten of 12 games. De Meola was given his walking papers.

Rooney attended the club owners' meeting yesterday and after the session went into a long huddle with Grange. During their conference Rooney offered Grange the job as coach of the Pirates next season.

"We didn't come to an agreement yesterday," said Rooney, "but I'm going to see Grange again today." It also became known that John McEwan had been released as coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers. His successor has been mentioned.

Presenting Max's Little Brother

MAX BAER, the film hero and night club idol, who incidentally holds the world's heavyweight championship, intends to keep the flaccid bauble in the Baer family for another ten years at least.

Sir Max, himself, intimates that he is rather bored with the fight racket, and has announced his intention of retiring from the un-couth knuckle knocking racket, after dragging down a couple more big purses. Still, Maxwell doesn't want the crown to pass into unworthy hands when he is ready to step down, so he is grooming his "little" brother, Buddy, for the championship.

Buddy is bigger than Max, being built more on the lines of Primo Carnora, and Max insists that his kid brother can lick all the other contenders right now. Max engaged Les Kennedy as Buddy's boxing tutor. Les is a ring-wise veteran of many flaccid wars who once gave the champion himself a boxing lesson in the ring, so he is well qualified to instruct Buddy in the fine points of the manly art of modified murder.

The younger of the big bad Baers has had several professional bouts against stiff opposition, and while he has yet to be put to the well-known acid test, ring experts who saw him in action on the recent Lasky-Levinsky card in Chicago tell me that he looks like a very promising prospect indeed.

He may develop into a better fighter than Max if brought along properly, because he appears to have the knack of punching, and, unlike most physical giants, doesn't seem to be muscle bound. Whether he can take it or not remains to be seen.

Max is always in Buddy's corner when the youngster fights, and the heavyweight king and his ambitious kid brother certainly are the most colorful pair the fight game has produced in a long time. If it were not less-maleste to compare the great Max with any other sport star, I would say that he and his brother are leather-pushing editions of Dizzy and Daffy Dean.

Friday evening Ohio Wesleyan goes to Akron for a contest with the Goodyear team, and Saturday night Wilmington will appear against Cincinnati on the Bearcat court.

The Big Six football selections for the past season will be announced shortly.

BUCKEYE LOOP TEAMS FACING TOUGHER RACE

Coaches Believe They've Better Combinations Than Before

BY FRITZ HOWELL, Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Dec. 11.—The Buckeye Conference is in for one of its closest basketball races in years this season, if the opinions of the coaches are a criterion.

Coach John Mauer of the Miami team at Oxford voiced the sentiment of the mentors today when he said: "The Buckeye Conference will be tougher than ever during the coming basketball season."

Better Combinations
Each coach believes he has a better combination than he boasted last season, when a close race featured the championship fight, Ohio Wesleyan, last year's champions, has six lettermen back, Cincinnati, which tied with Marshall for second place, has five lettermen, while Marshall has only a few veterans but will be stronger due to some exceptional sophomore material.

Ohio, which finished near the cellar, and Miami, the last-place club, have five lettermen back to bolster this season's squad.

Miami, after two seasons in the cellar, sees better things ahead due to a wealth of reserve material. While Coach "Butch" Grover, of Ohio U. has added some sophomore strength which looked good as the Bobcats lost by a single point to Ohio State Saturday night.

All-Buckeye Center
Carl Austing, all-Buckeye center, will be the bright spot of the Cincinnati team, and Coach Ray Brown has some good sophomores who may displace veterans. Coach Tom Dandolet of Marshall has his ace at forward.

Wesleyan, with its six lettermen and good sophomore prospects, is seeking a tall center, Coach Ray Detrick losing "Babe" Hendricks from that position by graduation.

The Buckeye schedule gets under way Jan. 5, but the teams have plenty of warm-up contests before that time. Wednesday night will find handover at Cincinnati, Georgetown at Miami and Wilmington at Ohio.

Friday evening Ohio Wesleyan goes to Akron for a contest with the Goodyear team, and Saturday night Wilmington will appear against Cincinnati on the Bearcat court.

CRIME COUNCIL DRIVE MAPPED

country. They must realize the many implications of that word 'crime'.

It is not enough that they become interested in one phase only. At one moment popular resentment and anger may be roused by an outbreak of some particular form of crime such, for example, as widespread banditry; or at another moment, of appalling kidnappings; or at another of widespread drug peddling; or at another of horrifying lynchings.

It is your positive duty to keep before the country the facts in regard to crime as a whole—great crimes, lesser crimes and little crimes—to build up a body of public opinion which, I regret to be compelled to say, is not in this day and age sufficiently active or alive to the situation in which we find ourselves.

The gathering of judges, detectives, lawyers, sociologists, criminologists and officials also heard Attorney General Cummings suggest a national center for the education of peace officers and say: "We need methods for better selection and training of personnel, laboratory facilities for work in detection and apprehension, opportunities for scientific research."

Stimson, Hurley Speak
Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of state, warned against "hysterical" sentimentalism in treating crime, and Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war, called on every citizen to do his share.

J. Edgar Hoover, commander of the justice department's investigators, planned to take the floor today to discourse on "detection and apprehension," telling how the department tracked John Dillinger, Betty Boy Floyd and Baby Face Nelson.

Later talks were scheduled on youth in crime, commercial racketeering and interstate compacts for crime control.

Farm Leader Urges Independence of Government Aid

(By Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 11.—W. I. Myers, governor of the farm credit administration, sounded today a call for farmers of America to be independent of government aid as a permanent policy.

Asserting "emergency refinancing" of farm debts "must continue as long as creditors press for liquidation," Myers said, however, that "as a permanent policy I think it is a mistake from the farmers' point of view to ask for government subsidy."

In an address prepared for the 16th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation, Myers expressed the opinion that "the further we can divorce farmer-credit from government aid and the possibility of political control, the sounder we will have built and the better our system will serve agriculture."

Chester C. Davis, administrator of the agricultural adjustment act, spoke of the Bankhead cotton production which he said had been raised against it.

"One popular illusion," he said, "is that the cotton program, in and of itself, is causing the loss of the export market."
"The cotton program is not to blame," he continued. "The principal reasons are the development of foreign exchange restrictions, the low level of foreign purchasing power and the increasing nationalistic trend of foreign cotton consuming countries."
